Accessibility & Inclusion

Inclusion

- Childcare room: supervised play area for children
- Mother's room: private room equipped for pumping & nursing
- Quiet room: room for those needing quiet time or space to process
- Bathrooms: single occupancy/gender-neutral option

Accessibility

- People with dietary restrictions eat first
- Front most seating is for the hard of hearing
- Please use the mic during Q&A for those who are hard of hearing

Code of Conduct

Code of Conduct

- Harassment-free environment
- Online & offline
- All affiliated events, outings
- Pronouns on badges
- Ask before posting on social media or publicly
- Report to organizers: mint sashes (trained in CoC) or navy sashes

We prioritize marginalized people's safety over privileged people's comfort

<http://www.writespeakcode.com/about/code-of-conduct/>

Harassment includes ...

- Offensive comments related to gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, disability, mental illness, neuro(a)typicality, physical appearance, body size, age, race, or religion.
- Unwelcome comments regarding a person's lifestyle choices and practices, including those related to food, health, parenting, drugs, and employment.
- Deliberate misgendering or use of 'dead' or rejected names.
- Gratuitous or off-topic sexual images or behavior in spaces where they're not appropriate.

Harassment includes ...

- Harassing photography or recording, including logging online activity for harassment purposes.
- Sustained disruption of discussion.
- Unwelcome sexual attention.
- Pattern of inappropriate social contact, such as requesting/assuming inappropriate levels of intimacy with others
- Continued one-on-one communication after requests to cease.

Ableist language

Alternatives for “crazy,” “lame”, “insane,” “sociopath,” “psychotic” etc

Frustrating: pointless, annoying, irritation, obnoxious

Intense: awesome, amazing, wild, fantastic

Bad: unpleasant, awful, uncool, gross, “the worst”

Intensifiers: really, very, intensely, wickedly, considerably, mad

Unreasonable: absurd, outrageous, unacceptable, ridiculous

Dangerous character: menacing, threatening, evil

Dorky: silly, cheesy, nonsensical, hooky, illogical

Bizarre: fathomless, daunting, overwhelming, bizarre, bottomless

Gendered Language

Non-binary not Gender Non-Conforming

Non-gendered words for addressing groups:

Folks, Y'all, Friends, Everyone, Ladies & Non-binary people, peeps

If you are not sure of a pronoun, ASK don't assume

Pronoun practice

She gave an amazing talk on her passion about accessibility.

They wrote a fascinating blog post on their work teaching people of color to code.

Ze is creating a cool open source project showing examples of how to test from zir work with a legacy system.

Impact before intention

Calling out & responding

“That makes me uncomfortable. Please stop.”

“Thank you for letting me know. Can I follow up with you to better understand what I did wrong?”

Intersectionality at Write/Speak/Code

- Everyone is a women or comfortable in women-identified spaces
- Baseline shared experience: being ignored, ideas taken credit for

BUT

- Different types of oppression can be both the same AND different
- Experiencing multiple types of oppression at once is complicated
- Don't dictate what someone “should” experience, feel, want
- Most of us have some sort of privilege sometimes

Holding Space

Current events are current

- Charlottesville
- The Google Memo
- Uber

“When we speak we are afraid our words will not be heard or welcomed.
But when we are silent, we are still afraid. So it is better to speak.”

- Audre Lorde

You can show up and hold space

Compassion is to notice, feel, and respond

Empathy is compassion + imagination

The Three Touchstones for Showing Up

- Your kindness is your credential
- Listening speaks volumes
- Small gestures make a big difference

<https://smile.amazon.com/There-No-Good-Card-This-ebook/dp/B019MMUAHE/>

Do ...

- Listen. A lot.
- Show up - sit with them, get food, help with transportation or life logistics
- Say ... I'm sorry you're going through this*. I don't know what to say. I want to support you. Can I get you some water? Do you want me to stay? This shit is hard for any of us. *Only say you're sorry if you know for a fact they are upset. Otherwise try "How are you doing with that?"
- Check in - How are you doing today? What is that like for you?
- Let them know you're here - I'm thinking of you. Hope today is going Ok.
- Notice when you are trying to make yourself feel better. (e.g. touching them, talking, etc)

Don't ...

Try to fix it or make it better.

Foist - push advice or unappreciated overtures

Fret - anxiously reacting with neediness.

Say: There's a reason for everything. Things will work out. At least it's not you/cancer/whatever!

Create a race to the bottom. Pain is pain. We don't need to compete about who has it worse.

Force a conversation

Working Agreement & Feedback

Working agreement

- Speak from your experience
- Two people speak once before you speak twice
- Allow a person to finish speaking
- Prefer shared experience over advice (“should”)
- Silence is OK

Productive Conversation

- Listen with full attention.
- Silence is OK. Let silence be longer than you are comfortable with. People need time to process.
- When you don't know how to respond, ask questions. You won't always agree with what is said and that's Ok.
- Summarize and repeat what people are saying. No one listens well.
- “No” shuts down the conversation. Try: “Yes, and ...” or “I can see how ...”
- Pay attention to nonverbal cues, especially if person seems to be getting triggered, flooded, or overwhelmed.
- Self-manage your non-verbal cues.

Productive Feedback

- Actionable
- Specific
- Kind
- Contextual
- Encouraging - to individual and the group
- Within the recipients scope of skills
- Speak from your own experience

Framework for giving feedback

1. Situation: set the situation or context
2. Behavior: describe the person's behavior
3. Impact: state the impact on you of behavior
4. Recommendation: suggest an alternative behavior

“When you said the word ‘expert’, you immediately looked down. It made me feel like you didn’t believe you were an expert. But you are! Try to focus on keeping eye contact with the group or the wall when saying that even if it makes you uncomfortable. Fake it ‘til you become it!”

Don't forget positive feedback

3 pieces of positive feedback = 1 piece of negative feedback
(up to 10:1)

Feedback Sandwich:

1. Praise: Identify strengths
2. Issue: Identify what needs to be improved or developed
3. Opportunities: Where and how to grow and improve

Framework for receiving feedback

1. Mirror: Summarize and repeat what was said. Make sure you understood.
2. Empathy: Show you understand their reasoning and emotions.
3. Validation: Ask questions that show you understand.

Pairing

- Be a rubber ducky first: ask to describe what they are trying to do, why, and how they have approached it
- Prefer watching or navigating (speaking instructions or ideas) over typing or driving
- Ask before taking the keyboard
- Think out loud
- Explain what you are doing or did or why something worked
- Be conscious of emotional state: frustrated, tired
- Be conscious of work style: experimental, deliberate, verbal, visual

Rise Up!

Rise Up!
But also ...

"CARING FOR MYSELF IS NOT SELF-INDULGENCE, IT
IS SELF-PRESERVATION, AND THAT IS AN ACT OF POLITICAL WARFARE."

Ownership

Own Your Expertise

Own Your Expertise

1.To have something in your possession.

2.To beat someone in a game in a manner that displays a much greater level of ability.

3.To kick the proverbial shit out of someone.

4.To administer a particularly rough act of self-punishment.

5.To be the victim of an unfortunate calamity.

1.I own a computer. I paid $1 for something that I now own. It belongs to me so I own it.

2.I destroyed his units and base: I owned him. I have just owned a noob.

3.He got owned, he had to have 100 stitches.

4.Jane came up to my room and I owned her like a noob.

5.A meteorite has just hit my house so now I feel owned.

Power

Points of Power

- JPR French & B. Raven
- Social Psychologists
- 1959

Coercive Power

- Based on fear & intimidation
- Most direct & potentially harmful power
- Includes physical violence or the threat of it, or more subtle abilities to coerce through laws, policies, or withholding necessary resources.
- Isn't likely to engender deep loyalty, but it can certainly influence observable behavior.
- “If you've got 'em by the balls, their hearts and minds will follow.” - LBJ

Reward Power

- Based on the ability to distribute rewards valued by others
- Salary, grocery money, compliments or other emotional support, letters of recommendation, votes—any sort of benefits or rewards that people want in exchange for desired behavior.
- Exchanges of reward power often based on a pragmatic calculation about how to get something done—good or bad.

“Legitimate” Power

- Based on one's position in the formal hierarchy of an organization, the culturally sanctioned hierarchy of a family or group, or the legal or social power of a professional status.
- Think police, teacher, military officer, school crossing guard.
- People comply because of socially sanctioned position.
- When carried to extreme, some people carry out horrendous acts because they were ordered to do so by others holding “legitimate” power.

Expert Power

- Influence due to skills or knowledge one possesses.
- Doctors, lawyers, hairdressers, plumbers, and IT managers.
- Most often it's exercised as the power-to get something done in a positive way.

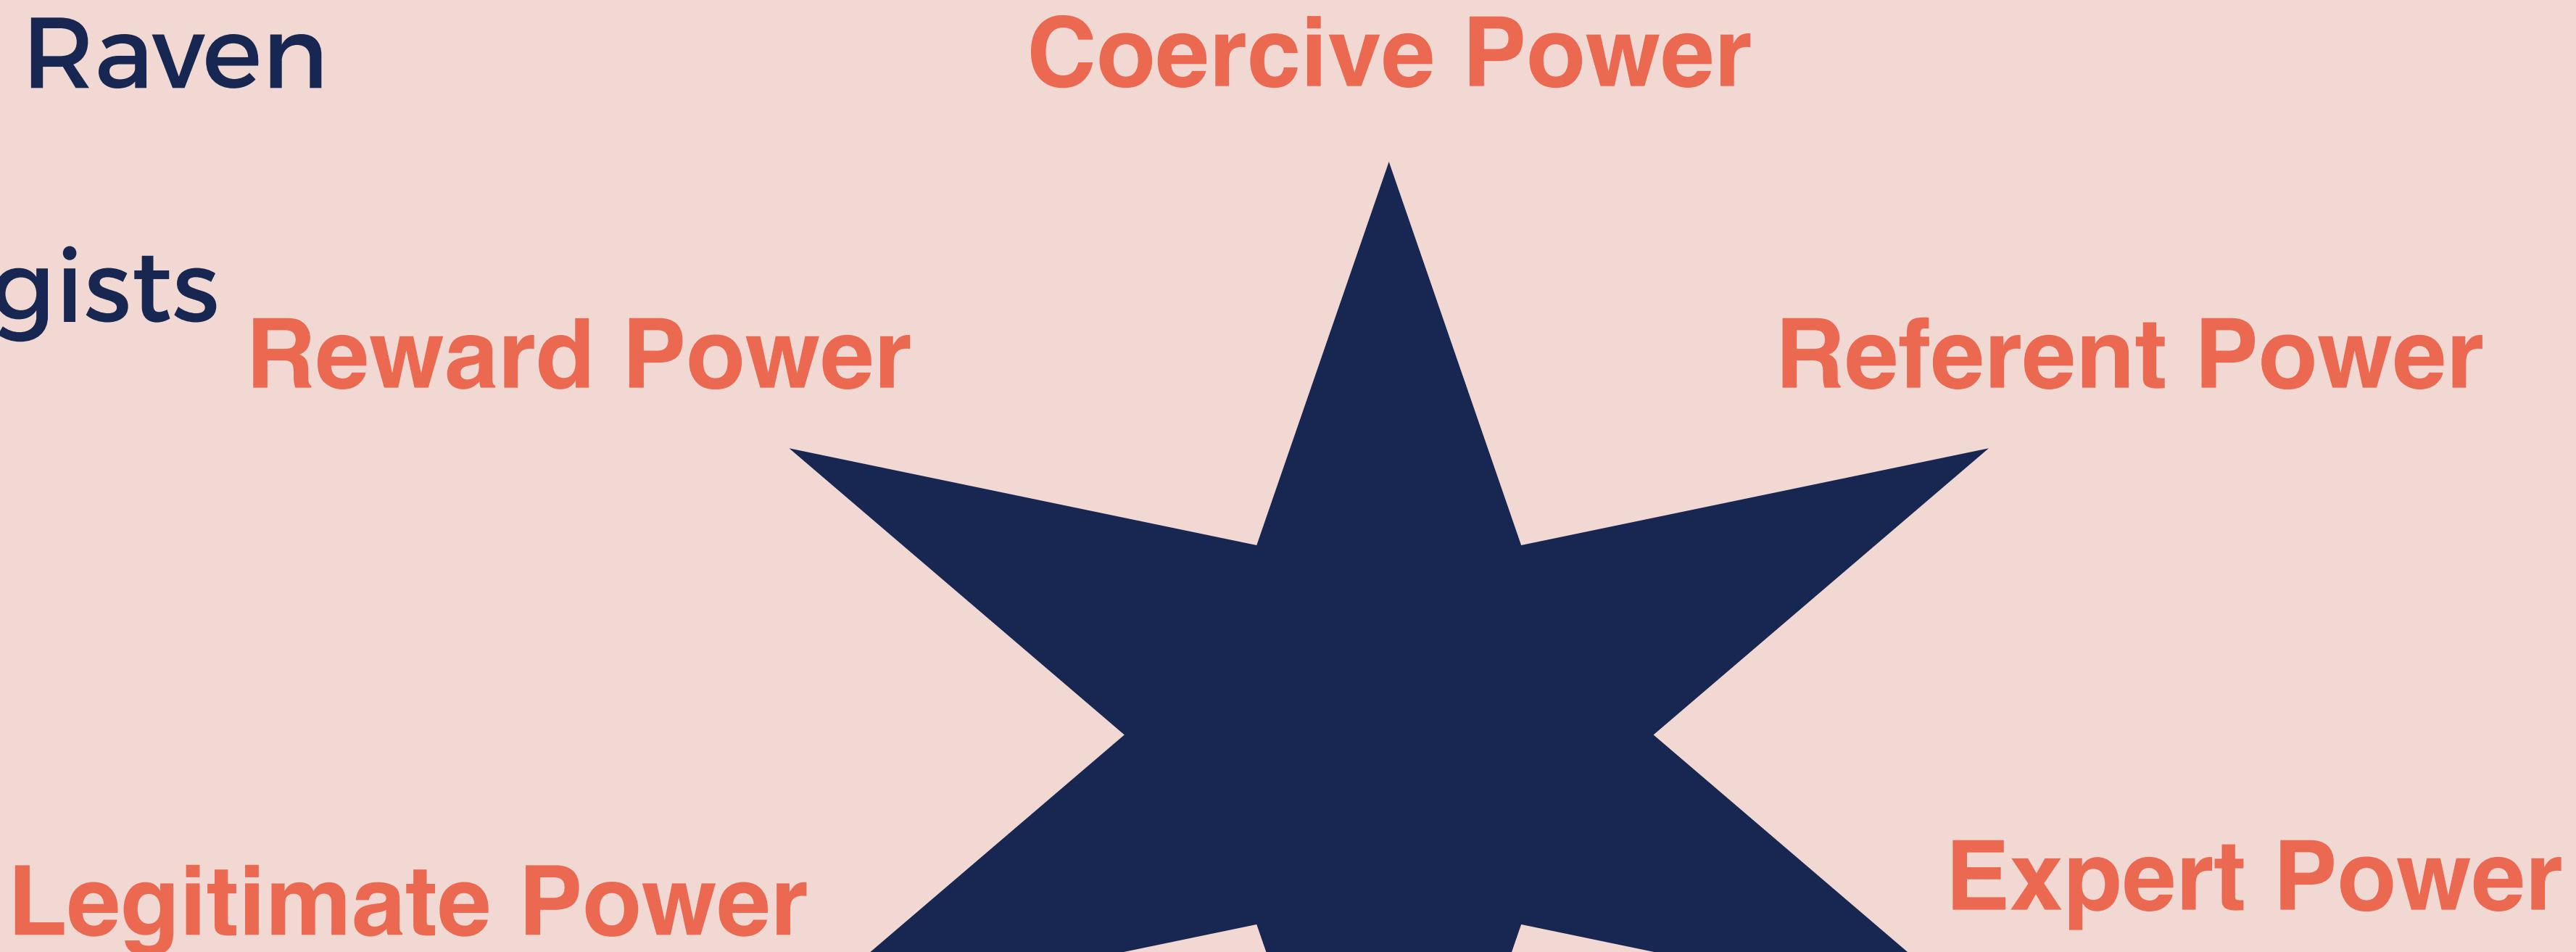

Referent Power

- Charisma-based power. Some people just have “it.”
- Celebrity power.
- Based in respect for someone’s personal traits or the resources he or she can bring to the table.
- People respond to this person’s influence because they like her, or he inspires them.
- Cult leaders have often used it to get their followers to cause harm to themselves or others.

Points of Power

- JPR French & B. Raven
- Social Psychologists
- 1959 - 5 points
- 1965 - 6th point

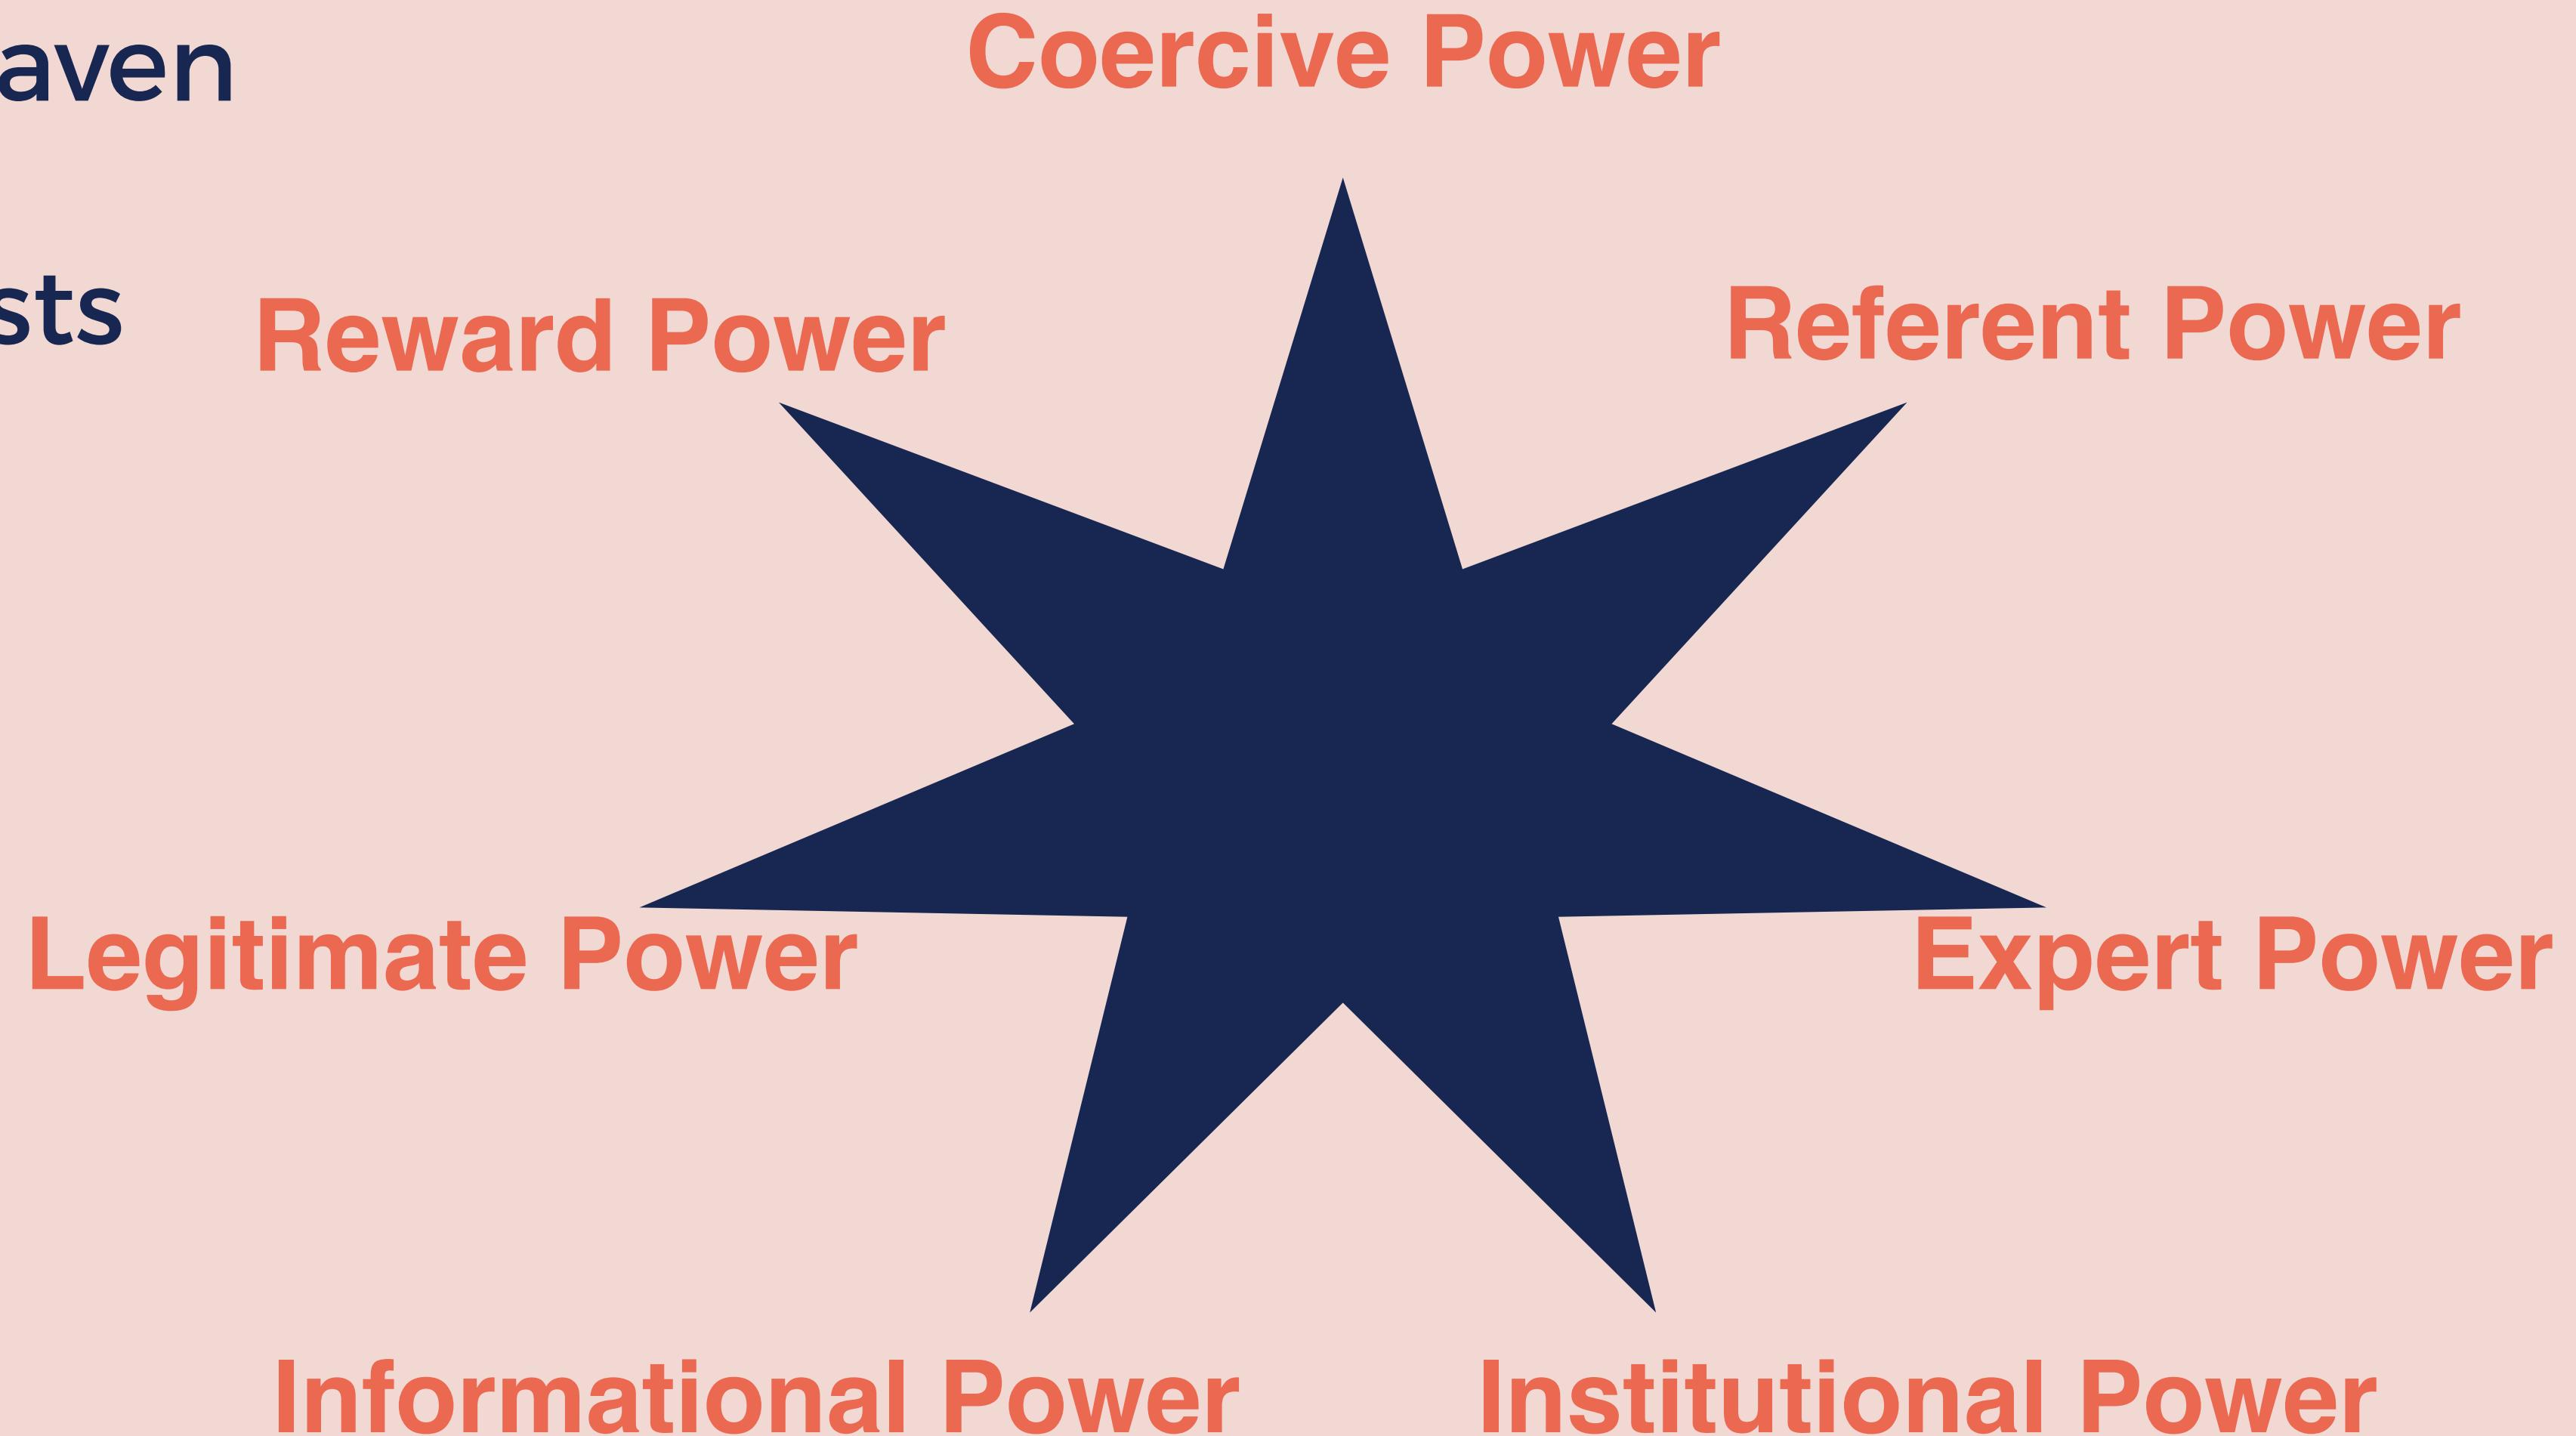

Informational Power

- Providing information to others that result in them thinking or taking acting in a new way

Is there a type of power missing?

Points of Power

- Social Psychologists
- 1959 - 5 points
- 1965 - 6th point
- 2017 - 7th point

Institutional Power

- Based on privilege or the unearned access to resources
- Supports the unequal distribution of resources enforced by cultural, political, economic institutions
- Does not require action or effort

Points of Power in your life

- Find a (different!) pair
- Discuss (for each type of power):
 - How do people you know use that type of power?
 - What do you like or dislike about it?
 - When have you used that type of power?

The Computer Girls

BY LOIS MANDEL

A trainee gets $8,000 a year
...a girl "senior systems analyst"
gets $20,000—and up!
Maybe it's time to investigate....

Ann Richardson, IBM systems engineer, designs a bridge via computer. Above (left)
she checks her facts with fellow systems engineer, Marvin V. Fuchs. Right, she demonstrates on a viewing screen how her facts designed the bridge, and makes changes with a "light pen."

Photos by Henry Grossman. Dress by Gino Charles.

Twenty years ago, a girl could be a secretary, a school teacher . . . maybe a librarian, a social worker or a nurse. If she was really ambitious, she could go into the professions and compete with men . . . usually working harder and longer to earn less pay for the same job.

Now have come the big, dazzling computers—and a whole new kind of work for women: programming. Telling the miracle machines what to do and how to do it. Anything from predicting the weather to sending out billing notices from the local department store.

And if it doesn't sound like woman's work—well, it just is.

"I had this idea I'd be standing at a big machine and pressing buttons all day long," says a girl who programs for a Los Angeles bank. I couldn't have been further off the track. I figure out how the computer can solve a problem, and then instruct the machine to do it."

"It's just like planning a dinner," explains Dr. Grace Hopper, now a staff scientist in systems programming for Univac. (She helped develop the first electronic digital computer, the Eniac, in 1946.) "You have to plan ahead and schedule everything so it's ready when you need it. Programming requires patience and the ability to handle detail. Women are 'naturals' at computer programming."

“That’s Right!” & “Fuck Yea”

- Share your topic
- Get a compliment
- You can (only) reply with either “That’s right!” or “Fuck yea!”

For example:

- I am so excited about hearing a talk on that topic and your expertise makes you the perfect person to learn from.
- I noticed that you’re very warm in conversation. It makes me feel like I can open up.

Write / Speak / Code

Bridging writing & speaking with coding

How do I code about it?

- Small tools
 - Chrome extension that replaces pronouns
 - “That what she said” response bot
- If you can talk about a solution, you can turn into code
 - Callisto
 - OpenGov
- Visualize the data that lead to the solution
 - Homicide Rate vs. Drug Arrests
- Examine a problem through experimentation / Code to promote discussion
 - Rewrite a library to use “Leader/Follower” instead of “Master/Slave”

Quick Tips

Writing/blog topics

- Low Hanging Fruit
- All talks can be turned into a blog post
- Blog posts are more sustainable / easier for someone to find
- If you write an email over and over, turn it into a blog post
- What do your friend's ask of you?

What types of publications would be interested in your work?

- Let podcasters know you are interested in being interviewed
- Guest blog for a friend
- Blog “round” with friends

Let's zine like it's 1999

WSC conf!

Fun @techspeakdigest fact! If you write or see something great about public speaking in tech, you can submit issue -

Girlfriends, I understand submitting your own writing is hard, why not start by suggesting your friends writing?

I would love to see people submitting inspiration - video/text or even storify of tweets on the best talk you saw this year (tell us why!)
